

DreadnoughtRock Newsletter

21st May 2009 Sending to the Newsletter Masses

First of all in this issue of the Dreadnought Newsletter a big thank you to all that came out on the Easter Bank Holiday Sunday night. It proved a pretty good night for our first Bank holiday Sunday night in the new venue.

A few might be wondering why not opening the Bank holidays in May ? Well the short answer is that having spoken to a guid few people the vast majority were not taking or getting the May holidays and if you were, some were getting the one at the start of May - some were getting the School one and some were likely to get the the Monday holiday at the end of May which would only dilute the numbers turning out on a Sunday night and make it seem quiet night if we opened them all or be a disaster If we gambled on one or the other.

I would like your feed back however on Thursdays and Sunday Nights and what you would like to see and hear. Comedy nights ? Quiz nights ? Bands ?

The reason I ask this is that Designs and planning applications are all done to transform the EH48 totally - Upstairs and Down and renamed the DreadnoughtRock Downstairs will be a soft rock area (no - not a soft play area) to build your self up to a full on assault upstairs and If you feel a touch out of breath or need to chill out then you can come back downstairs to have a quieter drink. More details will come in the future but for now all the nitty gritty takes time to sort outand we will keep you posted.

Just a reminder that as the weather improves and if we get the mad heatwave the weathermen are predicting you might want to venture into the beer garden before you head into the Dreadnought.

Finally the dreadnought AC/DC buses are booked and for all that have paid well done and thanks to getting the cash in promptly.

Those that have not paid then you are being given your last chance - if you are not going please let us know and if you are you are gambling with your place because the buses are booked and if there is no more room then there is no more room !

The Schedule for the Big Day on the 30th June 09 are :

Pub opens 2pm

Bus Leaving at 4pm promptly.

Getting to Hampden around 5pm

Return times TBC at this time.

Keep on Rocking
